Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 27 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Largely dry with sunny spells. Heavy rain overnight.

Today:
Remaining largely dry on Sunday with some sunny spells. However, further occasional outbreaks of rain are expected for southern areas during the afternoon. Feeling pleasant under the sunshine. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Tonight:
Cloud will thicken this evening as a band of rain moves northwestwards across the region. Rain will continue overnight, turning heavy at times with the risk of localised thundery downpours. Minimum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Monday:
Any rain will gradually clear through the morning to leave a largely dry but often cloudy day with some light rain or showers. Best of the sunshine in the south. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Cloudy on Tuesday and Wednesday with further outbreaks of rain and heavy showers. Drier on Thursday with bright spells. Feeling warm under the sunshine.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.